IMMEDIATE RELEASE
October 28, 1974

An open house in the new Physical Education-Recreation Education Center is being scheduled as part of the building's dedication ceremonies Nov. 1-2 at State University College at Cortland.

A large number of lectures, clinics and demonstrations have been planned for the two days with everything open to the public for viewing and participation.

General sessions have been planned in the physical education, health and recreation areas with the actual dedication ceremonies scheduled Saturday, Nov. 2, at 2:30 p.m. in the main gymnasium.

Formal building tours have been scheduled for Friday, Nov. 1, at 9, 10, 11 and 1 o'clock. Saturday tours will be at 9, 1 and 4 o'clock.

In connection with the dedication, the Health Department is sponsoring a symposium on health quackery Friday and Saturday and these sessions are open to the public in the main gymnasium. The morning session begins Friday at 9 and again in the afternoon at 2 p.m. A Saturday morning session begins at 9.

The Recreation Education Department is conducting its annual conference for college students and professionals during the two days. All sessions are scheduled for Corey Union.

Also underway Nov. 1-2 is the 10th Annual Institute on Elementary Physical Education sponsored by the Campus-Laboratory School.

The open house programs in the PER Center both Friday and Saturday will cover a wide range of interest for persons interested in physical education, athletics, leisure time activities and lifetime sports.

Friday morning sessions from 9 to 10:15 will include these topics and speakers: Movement Education, Dr. Joan Tillotson, University of North Carolina; Transfer Articulation from Two to Four-Year College, Dorothy Arnsdorff and Reuben Williams, Cortland; Reflections of Sport - a multi-media presentation by Carole Mushier and Vincent Minnella, Cortland; and a demonstration of folk dance programs by Ann and Andor Czompo and Bess Koval, Cortland.

From 10:30 to 11:45 Friday, these programs will be offered by Cortland faculty members: Camping for the Handicapped by Louise Moseley and Suzanne Wills; Yoga by Louis LaGrande, SUNY Potsdam; and Exercise Physiology, William Tomik and Florence Brush. Also during this time slot will be a presentation on Yoga by Louis LaGrande, SUNY Potsdam. A discussion of Title IX of the Higher Education Amendments enacted by Congress in 1972 will be presented by George Anderson, executive secretary, American Alliance for HPER.

Friday afternoon from 1 to 1:45, Cortland faculty members will conduct these workshops: Handball Clinic, Jerome Casciani; Racquet and Paddleball, Thomas Jackson; Squash Clinic, Lorraine Khouri and Reuben Williams; Gymnastics Clinic, Antoinette Tiburzi and Conrad Steele; Social and Ballroom Dancing, Bess Koval and the SUCC Ballroom Dance Team.

During the same time, the Cortland Dolphinotes will present a special dedication water show.

A general session is scheduled at 2 p.m. featuring Dr. Celeste Ulrich, noted physical educator from the University of North Carolina.

Five sessions are planned from 4:15 to 5:30 p.m. Cortland faculty members Lawrence Martin and Richard Wheaton will review the role of the master teacher and Dolores Bogard will talk on motor learning.

Gerald Haase of the State Department of Education will discuss new regulations governing physical education and Earle Zeigler, dean of the physical education faculty at Western Ontario University will speak on administrative theory in physical education.

Selecting and classifying junior high school students for interscholastic sports will be the topic of Richard McLean, president of the NYS Public High School Athletic Association.

A general session at 7 p.m. Friday will be part of the Recreation Conference. The speaker in Corey Union will be Joseph Curtis, former commissioner of parks and recreation in Boston, Mass.

Three programs at 9 a.m. will start Saturday's activity. Olympic diver Micki King will perform in the PER pool. Coronary disease prevention will be discussed by SUCC Professor William Tomik and Stuart Gillim, Cortland physician. The art heritage of physical education, sports and recreation will be the topic of Merle Rousey, HPER dean.

A general session at 10:30 will be part of the symposium on health quackery. The speaker will be Daniel Hill, Department of Investigation, American Medical Association.

A number of clinics are scheduled from 1 to 2:15 p.m. Saturday -- lacrosse by Chuck Winters; horseshoe pitching by Alan Stockholm; ice hockey by George Brown; figure skating by Jean Gonino; and baseball by Robert Wallace.

Micki King will talk on her reflections of athletics behind the yellow curtain. Carole Mushier and Vincent Minnella will repeat their multi-media show on Reflections of Sport.

The dedication ceremony, with Dr. Francis Moench as the guest speaker, will take place at 2:30 p.m. A reception will follow in the main lobby of the Center.
